educational opportunities that provide venues and Their mission is to produce media, events, and explore what Blackness means in Hawaiʻi and in developmental disabilities by supporting their and develop artwork that can provide income for the general non-disabled public into attempts in the Hawaiian Homelands community

Mahalo, Kim Coco, for your incredible support of Hawaiʻi People.

the Iwamoto Family Foundation

work between the youth, labor, church and social services, and language and cultural access.

mission is to perpetuate, promote, preserve, and cultural, environmental, and political significance Hawaiʻi's most ecologically important and culturally sacred places. Today, KAHEA has grown childhood sexual violence (CSV) through evidence-and community organizing. They endeavor to stop violence through education, community building cohesive spirit of ʻEa (Activating and nourishing communities around a through educational, cultural, and community community-wide celebration at Thomas Square.

K ʻiho ʻiho Hawai' for the New Generation

ʻā ina and to help train new seeks to be part of the revitalization of the communities about Native Hawaiian resource students grades K-6.

appropriate use

ohana who made these grant awards possible!

TOGETHER, family ~ mahalo for your continued support of community and alternatives that work to replace current structures of inequity and disproportionate power in Hawaiʻi ~ and the

ohana for your mana, your Mahalo to everyone in the HPF possible.

are making this collective build of a refreshed organizational vision

ʻā not have been possible without YOUR k community-raised funds this year ~ this is so powerful! This would

The HPF

all. Closing in on 3 years with HPF, I am incredibly honored to be

Director alongside a dedicated Board of Directors, a powerhouse

I continue to be humbled to serve in my capacity as Executive that uplifts our beloved community.

With deep aloha and mahalo for everyone in our HPF

ʻuhiwa

It Takes A Crowd.

share

and

love has reaffirmed the HPF

ʻi TOGETHER, family ~ mahalo for your continued support of community

ʻi ~ and the

ʻā

historical lows

human contribution to climate change, protecting trust resources and the communities that thrive in powerful community-based grassroots culturally sacred places. Today, KAHEA has grown group of Native Hawaiian cultural practitioners

seeking to connect

advocates, grassroots organizations and one of the funders of the homelessness and housing creation in a significant way

seeks to connect

a and to help train new seeks to be part of the revitalization of the

communities about Native Hawaiian resource

Your aloha is an important part of our collective work of grassroots organizations receiving grants.

Your love was a driving force and I am

by donating today!

truly the "People

and equitable Hawaiʻi. As the only social justice-ʻs Fund is a unique partnership of community giving

ʻi

to do it without you!

SHARE:

Truly the "People

community philanthropy with its work.

"It Takes A Crowd."

Fun Facts about Hawaiia

The First Hawaiian Language Spelling Book was published in 1829.

The Hawaiian Islands are the most remote island chain in the world, with an average distance of 3,300 miles to the nearest landmass.

The Hawaiian language is the only indigenous language of the United States that is still spoken as a primary language by its speakers.

1,000 species of flowering plants found in Hawai‘i are not found anywhere else on Earth.

The official seahorse of Hawai‘i, the nāwahī, was only rediscovered in 1975.

The Hawaiian Islands are home to 40% of all of the flowering plants on the planet.

Fun Facts about Hawaiia

The First Hawaiian Language Spelling Book was published in 1829.

The Hawaiian Islands are the most remote island chain in the world, with an average distance of 3,300 miles to the nearest landmass.

The Hawaiian language is the only indigenous language of the United States that is still spoken as a primary language by its speakers.

1,000 species of flowering plants found in Hawai‘i are not found anywhere else on Earth.

The official seahorse of Hawai‘i, the nāwahī, was only rediscovered in 1975.

The Hawaiian Islands are home to 40% of all of the flowering plants on the planet.